Grounds Report

Snow. Snow. More Snow. Ugh. There is so much snow that it is becoming more and more difficult to plow it. There's so much piled on the edges of roads, we are having to physically remove it in order to accommodate more. In some areas monuments are so close to the road that removing it is difficult, or impossible. It took us two full days last week to get the roads open to full width. After that, we spent 2 days moving the snow with dump trucks and backhoes and relocating it to snow dumps throughout the cemetery.

We are so ready for spring.

Damaged Headstone

During snow removal activities from the recent storm, staff made contact with a buried stone near a roads edge and damaged it critically. I am making efforts to contact the lot owner. We have no current address or phone number for them, so am reaching out in writing hoping to make contact to discuss resolution regarding the monument that was damaged. My interpretation of our policies is that we would be liable for the damage to their monument.

Milestone alert

At some point in the next 3 months, we will have buried the 7000th person in Mt. Pisgah.
