Grounds Report

September was a fairly busy month for funeral services and in between those we spent lots of time mowing and trimming. On calm days we're attacking the weeds in order to send them into winter with poison in their roots. This week we're putting the unirrigated rural cemeteries to bed for the season, and next week we will do the same with the irrigated cemeteries by mowing and blowing out the sprinkler systems. We have an air compressor reserved for the week of Oct. 19th and that is when we'll blow out Mt. Pisgah. Irrigation has slowed dramatically and we are on our last tank of water for the season. Thank goodness, because we used a lot this summer!

CIMS mapping update (Wright Cemetery)

We have completed the software mapping update to the Wright Cemetery, and it is fully functional. It turned out great. We will be engraving the garden sign with the new name Peaceful Prairie Garden next week when we take the compressor down for blowout.

Wright Plat

We have a final plat for the Wright Cemetery ready for signatures today. Once signed they will go to the commissioner's office and get scheduled for their second meeting in Oct. for their approval and signatures.

Church moving out

Harvest church is ending their long-term rental with us on Oct. 15th. They bought the building next door (old Oddfellows hall) and will make their permanent home there.
